BUSINESS GRAPHICS

Business graphics are plots created to translate business data into visual support for report and presentation use.

The two quality levels are:

Report Quality — High quality plots created for everyday or high volume use. Select when speed, quality, and low cost are the main considerations.

Presentation Quality — Plots of the highest quality created for business reports or overhead transparency presentations. Select when superior output, not cost, is the main consideration.

Applications Guide

TECHNICAL GRAPHICS

Technical/CAD graphics are drawings generated through computer-aided design (CAD) and used for engineering, architectural, and other technical applications.

The two quality levels are:

Preliminary Quality — Economical “working quality” or “check plot” drawings that will not be archived for future use. Select when speed and low cost are the main considerations.

Final Quality — Diazo-reproducible drawings of the highest quality that will be archived for future use. Select when archival durability and precise line quality are the main considerations.

HP Plotter Paper (Non-Glossy)

- Opaque, medium-weight paper
- Optimizes fiber-tip paper pen life
- Good color contrast
- Lowest cost HP media
- Ideal for everyday graphics

For Best Results:

- Use with fiber-tip paper pens to produce report quality plots with brilliant colors.
- Use only plotter paper (non-glossy). Do not substitute copier machine paper. Pen life will be shortened by its rough surface, resulting in inconsistent area-fill. Pen ink will also bleed and smear.
